

Ron Rameshnauth

As a participant who benefits from taking part in sports and physical activity, Ron has offered to give of his time and skills back to the community to help other gain similar positive outcomes as he has experienced. The opportunity to be a Sport Oakville board member has allowed Ron to actively endorse and promote sport in Oakville. Currently a member of the Town's Recreation & Parks Advisory Committee, Ron has gained further knowledge, and the importance, of sport in the community.

With an educational background in Recreation & Leisure services, Ron has previously worked with the City of Mississauga and several private gyms in the role of a personal trainer. From entrepreneur, to personal trainer to his current position as Regional Business Manager for Canada's largest independent fuel retailer, Ron has skill sets to share with Sport Oakville that include client focused and growth oriented results as well as the ability to oversee projects to their completion. For Ron, involvement with an organization means understanding its mandate and aligning himself to achieve goals and set new benchmarks.
